

Desperate Measures for Disparate Data?

Don't make a desperate decision when it comes to integrating your data for your financial services business. Make the right decision: jaccomo's jCore solution.

jCore

When your data resides in multiple places, you leave your firm vulnerable to a variety of losses:

Client positions and trade data can be compromised.

Advisors are frustrated because they never know what information is most up to date.

Your firm runs the risk of failed audits due to regulatory infringement.

These costly issues can be avoided by having continuous feeds from multiple sources and integrating all of your data with jCore.

Our secure system integrates data from all third party providers into one unified view.

All data from data feeds is uploaded automatically by jaccomo.

Create your own sales and operations dashboard reports.

Our team works side by side with yours before, during and after implementation.

Together we share success.
